JACK TAR'S RATIONS

SENSATIONAL STORIES DENIED BY THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Sailors on American War Ships Are Said to Be Served with Better Food than Foreigners Receive.

JUSTICE WHITE'S OPINION

DANGER IN OVERTHROWING PREVI-OUS INCOME-TAX DECISIONS.

Claims Against Hawaii Filed by Americans Who Were Charged with Conspiracy-Tilden's Fatal "1."

WASHINGTON, April 27 .- The officials of the Navy Department are nettled by the frequent severe criticisms on the insufficiency of the naval rations, which emanate from the Pacific coast ports. They have no hesitation in ascribing them to the gunboat men and the keepers of shops patronized by sailors who have been deprived of handsome "pickings" from the sailors by the muted or turned into cash by the sailors of the Navy, to change it, either by increase or diminution. The naval officers assert that it is the most liberal of any furnished to the sailors of the naval powers, and that a vast majority of the people of America are not as well supplied with good, wholesome food as are our sailors. The ration as fixed by law includes the following staples, all, it is said, in sufficient countily for any person: Bread, flour. quantity for any person: Bread, flour, pork, beef, preserved meat, beans, peas, rice, dried fruits, butter, tomatoes, coffee, tea, cocoa, pickles, molasses, vinegar, fresh meat and vegetables when within reach of a market. The law is so construed as to pera market. The law is so construed as to permit a wide range of choice of foods under these general heads. For instance, the sailor may have fresh soft bread or biscuit, under the head of flour, or he may have corn meal, hominy, oat meal, rye and cracked wheat. If he tires of beef and pork, he may try mutton, veal and poultry, or he can turn to canned corned beef and mutton, ham, bacon, sausage and fish. Any kind of fresh vegetables the market affords may go on the mess tables, and for desert he can fall back on dried apples, peaches, raisins, currants, prunes, figs and dates. But the sailor who still has an ungratified appetite may indulge it, for, in every mess of twenty-four persons, six rations may be commuted each day, yielding $1.80, which may be applied to the purchase of luxuries. issue of the naval ration, and the admiral commanding the fleet receives the same ration, no more nor less, that the youngest ery, the captain tastes a sample of each meal cooked for the men. No one can withhold the full ration from a sailor, and he has simply to "go to the mast" to have a complaint entertained, and if he persists a board of three officers must be appointed to inquire into it and see that the law is complied with JUSTICE WHITE'S WARNING.

rents and invested personal embered that Attorney-gensenting opinion, the text of which was made public to-day, also touched on this point. He said: "Under the income tax laws which prevailed in the past for many years and which covered every conceivable source of income, rentals from real years and which covered every conceivable source of income, rentals from real estate and everything else, vast sums were collected from the people of the United States. The decision here rendered announces that those sums were wrongfully taken and thereby, it seems to me, creates a claim of equity in good conscience against the government for an enormous amount of money. Thus from the change of view of this court it happens that an act of Congress passed for the purpose of raising revenue in strict conformity with the practice of the government from the earliest time in accordance with the oft repeated decisions of this court, furnishes the occasion for creating a claim against the government for hundreds of millions of dollars. I say creating a claim, because if the government be in good conscience bound to refund that which has been taken from the citizens in violation of the Constitution, although the technical right may have disappeared by a lapse of time, or because the decisions of this court have misled the citizen to his grievous injury, the equity endures and will present itself to the conscience of the government. This consequence shows how necessary it is that the court should not overthrow its past decisions."

NOT A "NEW WOMAN."

Miss Winnie Davis Says She Belongs to the Old-Fashloned Class.

WASHINGTON, April 27 .- Miss Winnie Davis, the daughter of the late President she replied, "Indeed, I fear new woman," she replied. "Indeed, I lear I am old fashioned in my notions. In my judgment it would be a sad thing for the women to be given the right to vote. A woman has enough to do in order to keep her own home in trim, and if she takes on her shoulders the additional burden of a man's duty I don't see how she can accomplish both. The men are abundantly able to do all the voting, and there is no need for women to attempt to usurp their domain. I don't think the booths on election day are her proper sphere. Of course I beday are her proper sphere. Of course I believe in allowing a woman every reasonable liberty consistent with her mental and physical well being, but to go into the fields of the men and to try to perform the duties of both sexes is out of place."

Miss Davis Is now in New York, where she is arranging with the Harpers for the publication of her first novel. She has been favorably known for some time as the favorably known for some time as the writer of short magazine stories, but she is now entering the more ambitious field of book-making. The title of her first novel is "The Veiled Doctor," which is certainly suggestive of mystery and adventure, but the author resolutely declines to give any information of the plot in advance of its appearance.

appearance. TILDEN'S FATAL NUMBER.

"One" Seems to Have Been the Bane of the Late Stateman's Career.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, April 27 .- Attention has often been directed by writers to the remarkable and apparently fatal recurrence of certain numbers of dates in the careers of prominent men. Hon. John Bigelow in his "Life of Samuel Tilden," just published, points out the marvelously fatal recurrence of the number "1" in Mr. Tilden's career. Almost every great ambition and project of Almost every great ambition and project of the sage of Greystone was defeated by a majority of one. In the election of 1876, he needed one vote to make him President of the United States. When the Electoral Commission was appointed to count the vote, every vital point was decided against him by a majority of one. When the decision was made final, Mr. Tilden was decided to have been defeated by a vote of 185 to 184, a majority seem to come over to his side and that was when after his death the clause of his will setting aside one-third of his vast estate for a great public library was sustained by one judge. But at the Grasses of North America. WASHINGTON, April 27.-Professor Scrib two years will be required for its completion. Meantime Professor Scribner will publish a more popular pamphlet covering the ground tersely, which will probably be completed this summer. The Professor has also arranged for a grass garden in the agricultural grounds here and another at the experiment station at Knoxville, Tenn.

In the former will be raised all the grasses, clovers, forest plants, etc., which can be grown in this climate, and at the latter those peculiar to the South. Over 250 varieties have been planted here.

SAVED A PASSENGER TRAIN.

Plans of Wreckers Frustrated by Twenty-Year-Old Lou Wilson.

PASADENA, Cal., April 27.-Miss Lou Wilson, a twenty-year-old and pretty young woman, frustrated a dastardly attempt to wreck the passenger train leaving Pasadena on the Southern California road Thursday blocks of the spot where two huge bowlders had been placed on the track the brave woman forced her way into a neighboring residence, seized a lighted lamp and succeeded in signaling the train to a standstill just in the nick of time. Miss Wilson, who is a daughter of S. J. Wilson, of this city, was returning to her home on Elm street, in the suburbs of the town, at about 7:30. She attempted to shorten her journey by going a few rods along the track of the railway. A short distance from the crossing she encountered some obstacles over which she stumbled and fell and, feeling about in the dark, she was horrified to discover two huge bowlders and a quantity of sidewalk planking placed on the track with the intention of wrecking the passenger train due at the crossing at 7:35. She set to work with all her strength to move the obstruction, but found it was utterly impossible to budge it. While tugging at it she heard the whistle of the locomotive as it left Pasadena Station, which meant that within a few minutes it would come whizzing along. With rare presence of mind Miss Wilson rushed into a neighboring yard and residence, seized a lighted lamp and sucburst into the house, seized a kerosene lamp and rushed out. The members of the household thought she was crazy. She reached the track just in time to flag and stop the east-bound train within forty feet of the obstruction.

T., April 27.-Continuous sunshine, high winds and absence of rain have been the prevailing conditions and as a result winter wheat and spring crops of every description have made little growth. Only in the southern section of the Territory have good rains fallen and there all crops are doing well. In western Oklahoma crops are almost totally ruined and range cattle are suffering.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 27.—The State convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was to have discussed the question of female suffrage at its session to-day, the Atlanta contingent having given notice of the introduction of a memorial to that effect. The Rev. J. A. Cook, of Trinitly Methodist Church, in whose basement the convention is meeting, has notified the convention that it must vacate if it intends to consider female suffrage or other political questions. The Atlanta delegates threaten to bolt if female suffrage is not adopted and start an independent movement. Can't Talk Suffrage in Church.

City Treasury Exhausted. SAN FRANCISCO. April 27.—The theory that the treasury of this city and county would become exhausted in the course of so many days or weeks as a result of reckless drafts on it for election and other expenses has given way to a condition. The treasury is exhausted and tradespeople refuse to honor the requisitions of the supervisors. Superintendent Weaver, of the almshouse, says his wards are hungry and, within a few days, unless relief is given, the nine hundred inmates will be crying for bread.

We are particular as to the fabrics from which our garments are made---as to the trimmings that go into them, the tailoring that gives them shape and style; in fact, as to every point that affects durability, appearance and price. The average made-to-order suit will not compare with our suits at $15 to $30. We give you better values in every way. And if, by chance, one of our suits does not turn out satisfactorily, we are always ready to make a cash refund.

Our range of long-pants Suits for Boys, 13 to 19 years of age, is prodigious. Good all-wool Suits, from some of the best makers of Boys' Clothing in the country, as low as $6.75. The price should be $10, but we are determined to make many more mothers understand the sterling qualities of our good Boys' Clothing, and PRICE is the magic spell by which we will draw them to our store. These $6.75 Suits are cut in the latest style, are splendidly trimmed, are thoroughly well tailored, and are worth many dollars more than our price. As to that you can judge for yourself.

For the best Boys' Long-pants Suit made you must see those we are selling at $12 to $20. No tailor can turn out anything finer.
